

ASTREES

CLR

EURODETACHEMENT 2016-2017

Enhancing administrative cooperation through coordinated transnational actions

In the face of complex transnational organization of production, the transnational cooperation seems imperative, but the road ahead is still long and challenging.

Legal instruments, organizations, working methods logical determinants , strategies are very different from one country to another.

A key challenge : articulating our work practices across the borders

Since 2011, in spite of difficulties observed significant evolutions regarding how the stakeholders deal with posting situations :

Through the activities of EURODETACHEMENT, We Posting of workers:

Improving collaboration between social partners and public authorities in Europe

General synthesis

Established a categorization of practices as well as a mapping of actors to give themselves useful references Identified Common concerns

400 persons

Through our steering committee, our immersion periods seminar or transnational workshop, we've aimed at

Better understanding each other

Building mutual trust

Strengthening bilateral contacts

Significant synergies at several levels.

Legal frameworks

This morning

Organisation & management

This afternoon

National cooperations

Transnational cooperations

A major challenge identified during discussions with our partners, notably during the final steering committee working sessions held on 28 and 29 of January 2015

To progress towards a more operational phase for the labour inspection operations carried out on either side of borders

A transnational 'action learning' program with

60 professionals

25 actions

25 hosting teams

Activities

- To detect and focus on situations
- To organize joint action on such operations

I) Control and monitoring

II) Joint initiative of public authorities and social partners to discuss on case studies

III) Information and awareness-raising for companies and workers in the construction sector France / Portugal

- To share aims
- To jointly ensure the follow-up

